MOWLEM MARATHON EFFORT RAISES FUNDS FOR CLIC SARGENT

LONDON (March 11, 2011) – British sports car star Johnny Mowlem has a heavy right foot, as witnessed by his victories in some of the world's most prestigious races. He has jammed gears and burned rubber against the best drivers in the world.

But it is a race closer to home that has much of his attention these days and he'll need lighter feet. Mowlem will compete in his second London Marathon later this year, raising money for Clic Sargent, the same child's cancer charity he championed in the foot race a year ago. The always fit race car star has adapted his racing-oriented conditioning regimen to include preparing for the marathon.

To help raise funds for the charity, Seven Red Roses, a pub in Lower Early, will host a Lotus Racing-themed raffle and auction March 19. Mowlem is a factory driver for Lotus.

"The work of Clic Sargent is so important and worthwhile, and I really wanted to run the marathon again for them this year. I'm so appreciative of the help I'm receiving from (Seven Red Roses manager) Stuart Underwood and his team hosting the event, I'm sure it'll be successful and hopefully someone will go home with a bit of Lotus kit they'll treasure," Mowlem said. Prizes include memorabilia and limited edition merchandise, donated by Johnny, from the Lotus team.

Underwood said, "I'm so pleased we are able to help Johnny with such a worthy cause. I know him through a mutual friend and as soon as we heard he was running the marathon again, we were eager to assist! We have such a great bunch of customers here at the Seven Red Roses, I'm sure we'll all band together to raise as much money as we can for Clic Sargent!"

Clic Sargent offers these families all round care and support every step of the way, during their treatment, in hospital, at home and after treatment. The charity aims to help as many children and young people as possible to survive cancer and make the most of their lives by offering clinical, practical and emotional support.
